

INTRODUCTION

Our ultimate Mexican Road Trip! This 14-day itinerary takes in all of Southern Mexico's major highlights - and as the entire trip is done by road it gives you a fantastic perspective of the various changes in the geography and people of the region. You start in Mexico City on the dry desert plateau of AnÁihuac, travelling past volcanoes and over the Sierra Madre Mountain Range. Then you travel into Tuxtla and San Cristobal de Las Casas in the Chiapas, another mountainous area that has the highest proportion of indigenous Mexicans - decedents of the Mayans, many of who continue to keep Mayan beliefs and traditions alive to this day.

Then onwards to Palenque, a once grand Mayan city located in lush tropical rainforest. You continue to the old walled city of Campeche and the colonial city of Merida and finally you reach the rightly famous ruins of Chichen Itza, a highlight of the trip. After such a long journey you will get to enjoy a few days of rest and relaxation in the Caribbean resort town of Cancun.

DAY 3: Teotihuacan Pyramids and Guadalupe Shrine

This morning you will be collected from your hotel to visit the impressive archaeological site of Teotihuacan, located 50km northeast of Mexico City. On the way, stop at the "Plaza de las Tres Culturas", where three cultures converge: Aztec, Spanish, and contemporary Mexican. Continue to the Shrine de Guadalupe, Latin America's most revered religious shrine. It is here where the Virgin of Guadalupe is said to have appeared before an Indian named Juan Diego in 1531, and an image of her was miraculously emblazoned on his cloak. There is time to explore the New Basilica de Guadalupe (the Old Basilica, built in 1700, is slowly sinking) and to see Juan Diego's cloak. Drive for another hour to Teotihuacan, one of the most impressive cities of the ancient world, held sacred by the Aztecs. Explore its temples, palaces and pyramids, including the Quetzalpapalotl Palace, the Pyramid of the Moon, and the immense Pyramid of the Sun, ranked among the biggest in the world. DAY 4: Puebla via Cholula and Tonantzintla

We will drive to the World Heritage Site of Puebla, located 130km southeast of Mexico City. On the way we will stop in Tonantzintla, where we will visit its exuberant church. Under its dome, the surface is covered with colourful stucco saints, devils, flowers, fruits, birds and more - a great example of indigenous artisanship applied to Christian themes. We continue to Cholula, where we will visit the Great Pyramid of Cholula, its remains measuring 450m along each side of the base and 65m high, making it larger in volume than Egypt's pyramid of Cheops. Now overgrown and topped by a church, it is difficult to recognise this once magnificent pyramid. We arrive in Puebla in time for lunch (not included). Mexico's national dish, the 'mole poblano', originated here! We will explore the colonial centre, lined with churches and colonial mansions, many adorned with the beautiful hand-painted Talavera tiles (azulejos) for which Puebla is famous. The historic centre of Puebla is a UNESCO World Heritage Centre. The city was built in 1531 at the foot of the Popocatepetl volcano and it has preserved its great religious structures including the 16th/17th century cathedral and many fine buildings including the old archbishop's palace.

Merida was built as a walled city and several of the old Spanish city gates remain. The city boasts the second-largest historic centre in Mexico, Mexico City's being larger and it gets its nickname, La Ciudad Blanca (The White City), from the predominance of white limestone that was used as a building material.
