

THE ARCTIC - FROM THE NORTHERN LIGHTS TO THE POLAR NIGHT | LE COMMANDANT CHARCOT

INTRODUCTION

Travel with featured guest Ian Dawson, British Photo Ambassador.

On this once in a lifetime journey you will journey into the polar night. As the northern winter approaches the sun hardly rises over the horizon. You will be able to enjoy long dusk, which stretches out. Sail past jagged coastlines in Norway and continue up to Spitsbergen, which will be showing it's winter splendor. Here is where you will go in search of the Northern Lights.

Cruise onboard the Le Commandant Charcot, a premium ship that is built with a mix of luxury and expedition in mind. It is the world's only Luxury Icebreaker and can go further than most other ships for a true exploration experience. From the ship you can enjoy the winter panoramas over the Arctic Circle, while sipping on a cocktail on the outside promenade deck, or from the heated Blue Lagoon pool.

In Norway you will visit the village of Lapland, which is located close to the northernmost point of Europe, the North Cape. Here you will see the Sami Reindeer farmers ad one of the last European indigenous people. When nightfall begins it will be time to set off and chase the Northern Lights.

When exploring Spitsbergen the ship will sail along majestic fjords and pass by ancient glaciers. Make the most of the rarity of the daylight here and experience the long polar night.

DAY 5: Sailing Along Bjornøya (Bear Island)

Halfway between Norway and Spitsbergen, you will sail not far from the coastlines of Bjørnøya, the southernmost island of Svalbard. From your ship, observe this isolated piece of land discovered in 1596 by the Dutch navigator Willem Barents, then looking for the Northwest Passage. Following a tough fight between a polar bear and the members of the expedition, he dubbed the place Bear Island. Regularly covered by a thick layer of fog, Bjørnøya shelters a meteorological station built in 1923, which is still in operation. Declared a nature reserve in 2002, the island is above all home to an enormous colony of sea birds during summer.

DAY 6: Hornsund

Considered Spitsbergen's southernmost fjord, Hornsund is famous as one of the first places to have been visited in the region. In 1610, the British explorer Jonas Poole named it thus, after one of the members of his crew brought him a reindeer antler. Shortly afterwards, the first whalers settled in the region and contributed to shaping its history. As you move deeper into this fjord, whose total length is 30 kilometres (19 miles), you will find yourselves immersed in the beauty of the surrounding mountains, in the mystery emerging from these small drifting icebergs, and in the glory of this gigantic glacier standing proudly before you.

DAY 7: Longyearbyen, Spitsbergen

Longyearbyen is the capital of the Norwegian Svalbard archipelago, located on Svalbard's main island, and is the northernmost territorial capital on the planet. With winter temperatures dropping to below 40°C, the landscapes of this mining town are simply breathtaking. The glaciers, the mountains stretching as far as the eye can see and the untouched nature, make you feel like you're in completely unexplored territory.

DAY 8: Bellsund fjord, Spitsbergen

You will head towards the Bellsund fjord, to follow the traces of the first explorers, arriving from the Norwegian coasts, or those of the many trappers in search of game and trophies. Surprisingly rich in wildlife, the branches of the fjord separate to form two distinct valleys. Give free rein to your imagination in the heart of this majestic natural environment, where time seems to stand still.

DAY 9: Sailing Along Bjornoya (Bear Island)

Cruising between Norway and Spitsbergen, you'll revisit Bjørnøya, Svalbard's southernmost island, for the second time. Despite its foggy cover, the island boasts rugged cliffs, basalt beaches, and vibrant tundra vegetation. It's a haven for various seabird species, forming one of the largest colonies in the region during summer. Seal sightings are common, and occasionally, whales grace its coastal waters. The island's striking scenery and diverse wildlife make it an intriguing stop on your journey.

DAY 10: Honningsvåg

If you feel like you have arrived at the end of the world in Honningsvåg, it is because this is the case. Halfway between Oslo and the North Pole, it competes with Hammerfest for the status of “the northernmost town in Continental Europe”. Colourful houses light up this charming and typically Norwegian fishing port nestled in the hollows of the region’s mountainous terrain. Travellers come to stay in the village to go to the North Cape. At the end of the road, you will see the globe that indicates that you are at the very end of Europe. At this point, only the Svalbard archipelago separates you from the North Pole. There is sea as far as the eye can see. The Northern Lights, the view of the immense cliff plunging into the sea, the thousands of puffins, gannets and cormorants that spin around you: everything here is grandiose.

DAY 11: Reinøya Island & Lakselv

On the last day of our expedition before disembarkation, we'll encounter the small Reinøya Island, spanning a mere 3.35 km2 (1.3 square miles) situated in the heart of the Porsangerfjorden. This nature reserve may be small, but it holds numerous treasures waiting to be explored. Amidst the tranquility, witness the island’s unique geology, characterized by the whiteness of dolomite, and traces dating back a thousand years from the last ice age, whether on a hike or a Zodiac outing. Following this memorable visit, we'll discover Lakselv, meaning “Salmon River”, located at the end of the vast Porsangerfjorden. Renowned for its abundant salmon fishing, the village is nestled amidst waters teeming with fish. Offering privileged access to magnificent surrounding nature, it preserves traces of the last ice age, notably in Trollholmsund, showcasing dolomites with surreal silhouettes—an extraordinary sight not to be missed!
